10to8 is delighted to announce that it has been honoured with a Queen's Award for Enterprise in the category of International Trade.

The Queen's Awards for Enterprise are the most prestigious business awards in the UK, recognising and celebrating business excellence across Britain. The award is for 10to8's Outstanding Short Term Growth in overseas sales over the last three years.

10to8 helps organisations of every size schedule bookings with their clients. From the NHS in the UK to banks overseas. 10to8 schedules millions of bookings a month for hundreds of thousands of companies in 40+ languages world wide.

Following a tough start to the pandemic the company has expanded rapidly and consistently internationally. They have even helped schedule the vaccination programme for an entire country. This Queen's Award is a clear recognition of that expansion.

Their international success stems from their unique approach to appointment management. 10to8 creates spare time for those using it. This enables their clients to deliver more with the same resources and a better experience for their customers. 10to8's award winning booking system achieves this with a combination of smart communications, accessible scheduling, powerful business logic, and excellent customer service.

Large clients of 10to8 include banks and building societies, recruiters, hospitals and governments, and many small businesses in health and beauty, education and professional services. Key growth markets recognised by the Queens Award include North America, India, Australia, Canada and Israel.

Matthew Cleevely, CEO, commented: *"We are delighted to have been presented with a Queen's Award for our successes in international trade.
